

CHEPYNG WALDEN

A Late Medieval Small Town

Saffron Walden 1438-1490

Elizabeth Allan

The Saffron Walden Historical Society is proud to bring into publication this landmark volume, a unique and detailed portrait of Saffron Walden at the time when it was still known as Chepyng (or Market) Walden. The author vividly brings to life the town as it grew and changed almost six centuries ago, leaving a legacy we still enjoy today: this was the dynamic period when the magnificent church was being built, there was a rich cultural life, sophisticated trading patterns and saffron was becoming an important crop. A remarkable and scholarly book, fully illustrated with maps, charts and photographs, it is destined to become a classic reference for everyone with an interest in the history of medieval life in the finest market town in Essex.

Edited by Jacqueline Cooper. Design by Nick Crawley. Fully illustrated in colour. Published by SWHS Publications.
